

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Systems and methods for the insertion of commands and/or other data into a digital programming stream are described. These command and/or data may be inserted into digital advertisement or other programs and may be utilized by any device which is involved in the generation, transmission, reception and/or presentation of content via a digital programming stream.